The parapet of the nave is embattled, and over the chancel arch one of the battlements is fashioned into a small bellcot, where the sanctus bell may have hung. There is a stone cross over the east end of the chancel, and on the south-east corner of the tower, just above the spot where the parapet of the nave joins on to it, are two stone sculptured figures, which may be mere ornament, or perhaps intended to represent evil spirits flying away from the church. Before leaving the church the members inspected the parish registers. They then proceeded to the rectory, where the rector pointed out a portion of the house where the wall has been laid bare, showing the original structure to be a black and white building. It is intended to strip off all the plaster, and when this has been done the improvement will be great. In the rectory grounds are some magnificent trees, a magnolia and an old copper beech being particularly fine. Wednesday, June 10th, 1903. The members visited Prestwich Parish Church under the leadership of Mr. Herbert Sherriff. In the absence of the rector (the Rev. F. W. Cooper) the members were received by the Rev. J. Herbert Kidson, M.A., who described the church. The old parish register and church plate having been examined, Mr. Sherriff read a paper, giving many interesting glimpses of the history of the church. Saturday, June 2jth,...
