They have become a part of his world as familiar and unquestioned as the sun's diurnal round, with the cry of the newsboy at dusk and the milkman in the morning. The seventeenth-century Lloyd, who set up his coffee-house as a resort for seafaring gossips, is no more than a myth in the modern shipman's liturgy; and travellers by the night mail from London to Edinburgh, intent on errands of pleasure or of gain, pull the black lamp-shade over the flickering flame and settle themselves as cosily as may be in the carriage corner, without giving a moment's thought to the long labour of...
