It has been thorough and systematic, involving an examination of titles (often very complicated), as well as resources and their accessibility, foundation work for the investment of capital. Of course the great fundamental resources of coal and iron have absorbed the larger portion of our expenditure of time, labor and money. Confining this statement to such things as our work has made known to us at first hand, we will try and give you, in as few words as possible, a clear statement of what we have found about iron and coal. Permit us to say here that while we recognize the fact that the Southern Appalachian region by no means covers all the coal and iron resources of the Southern States, yet it has been almost wholly the field of our investigations, because we found that, aside from containing the great bulk of these minerals of the best quality, it held them in closer proximity and with attendant conditions for working them up more favorable than elsewhere exists. THE SOUTHERN APPALACHIAN REGION Embraces a strip of elevated mountainous country seven hundred miles long, with an average width of one hundred and fifty miles, lying in a northeast and southwest course diagonally across a square formed by the 34th and 40th parallel north of the equator and the 77th and 87th...
